

Cottontail Rabbit

(Sylvilagus audubonii)

Cottontail Rabbits are named after their fluffy cotton-resembling tails.

They use their tails as an alarm signal by raising them up to expose the white tuft of fur underneath.

This helps to warn other rabbits that a predator is nearby.

