

Western Bluebird

(Sialia mexicana)

Western Bluebirds build their nests in the cavities of trees. They often rely on dead trees, trunks hollowed out by woodpeckers or man-made nest boxes.

They switch from a main diet of insects in the summertime to fruits and seeds in the wintertime.